

Sp00ky Season

By: Kirsten Mueller

It's Spooky season, everyone! The best time of year when the weather gets cooler and the seasonal Pumpkin spice is out. You can celebrate Halloween in so many ways, even when you're in quarantine. Although this wasn't the Halloween we were expecting it can still be fun. This year Halloween is on a Saturday, so you know what that means, you can stay up late if you dare. I know most of you Halloween lovers were looking forward to Halloween, so get your scare on and let's make the most of it. Here are some fun ways to spend your time this Halloween.

1. Spooky Movie Night - There are many movies that when you think of them it sparks Halloween. There are so many varieties of movies "from childhood classics like Halloweentown to cult favorites like Beetlejuice" (Town & Country). Although I personally have watched none of the scary movies here I hear they are great if you like a good scare. Some of these scary movies include Scream, Nightmare on Elm Street, The Conjuring, Beetlejuice, and The Shining, etc. Movies that are not so scary and fun to watch are Halloweentown, Twitches, All Hallows' Eve, The Boy Who Cried Werewolf, Casper, It's The Great Pumpkin, Charlie Brown, The Addams Family, and Hocus Pocus, etc. If you want to take a further look into some of these movies head on over to our Arts and Entertainment tab to look at Adam Robb's article "Essentials To Watch This Halloween". This Article gives a description of many spooky movies so you know if they are right for you.
2. Bonfires - Halloween's looking to get cold this year, so a great way to socially distance and stay warm is having a big Bonfire. Get a tray of snacks and food for you and your friends or family to share. Roasting hot dogs is a great way to make dinner and social distance from one-another at dinner. For dessert you can make s'mores, so get a tray of Graham crackers, chocolates, marshmallows, and whatever you want to put on your s'more. My personal favorite is putting a Reese's cup on my s'mores.
3. Make Spooky Halloween Treats - The best way to have fun and make your house smell delicious is to cook some Halloween treats! "These scary-good treat ideas are a must at any Halloween party" (delish). Some great Halloween treats to make for a family get together are some fun Spooky Halloween cookies, brownies, cake, cheesecake, caramel apples, etc. Making these fun treats gets family and friends together to have a fun time baking and a fun time taste testing the delicious treats.
4. Virtual Halloween Costumes Contest - This year is much different than years past. A fun way to social distance and still get together with your friends or family is by having a virtual costume contest. You could do this by Facetime, Zoom, Google meet, etc. So get your costumes on and have a great time. If you're struggling with Halloween costume ideas you can head over to Tessa Johns article “Quarantween Costumes”. There are so many ideas for you and even your friends to find the perfect costume for this Halloween.

5. Spooky Themed Arts and Crafts - There are so many great Halloween crafts that you can make to decorate your house or give to a friend. Some of these great ideas are paintings, popsicle witches and pumpkins, pom-pom bats and so much more. These crafts are so fun to make, and it could be a great bonding experience between you, your friends, and family. Let's get your craft on because, as the well news said, "halloween isn't canceled" this year.
